LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE

DOCTORAL PROGRAM IN INTERNATIONAL
BUSINESS AND MARKETING

Director, PhD Program in Marketing (May 2016 – May 2021)

Richard A. Chaifetz School of Business, Saint Louis University

Primary accomplishments:

- Modernized doctoral program structure and requirements to enhance student learning outcomes and job competitiveness
- Developed a Program Handbook to outline and clearly communicate all aspects, requirements, and expectations of the PhD program
- Crafted guidelines in support of PhD program milestones to clarify requirements, and to establish student, faculty and doctoral coordinator responsibilities
- Created rubrics for evaluating student performance on all major milestones in the program
- Updated PhD program curriculum (including the addition of supporting areas and a seminar in Marketing Strategy) based on benchmarking of peer and aspirational programs
- Formalized annual student evaluation process
- Reinforced SLU's emphasis on teaching by implementing a requirement that all PhD students complete the Certificate in University Teaching
- Strengthened requirements of the program to include higher academic standards for performance in concentration area seminars (3.3 required GPA in marketing and IB seminars; previously 3.0)
- Revised program communication materials in support of recruitment efforts
- Initiated a Brown Bag Series for PhD students and faculty to engage in plenary sessions related to topics relevant to students
- Had students selected to attend both the AMA Sheth Doctoral Consortium and the AMS Doctoral Consortium
- Worked with alumni of the program to create a PhD Alumni Travel Fellowship

Ongoing responsibilities as PhD director:

- Monitoring program performance and implementing improvements to achieve strategic objectives
- Creating and refining operating processes in support of program objectives
- Leading student recruitment process and socializing students into the program
- Advising and supporting students from one program milestone to the next
- Managing annual student evaluation process
- Facilitating working relationship between students and program faculty
